The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and will not be skipped school that afternoon and will not be whipped school. Aunt Polly is satisfied, and Tom’s half-brother, Sid, is out to dispose his own clothes. Tom goes out of the house to run down the river and eventually chooses the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. His cousins by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing, so he sells for a “white alley,” a kind of unclear. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chooses him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
